Call for Presentations

Practitioners and academicians/researchers alike are encouraged to submit a proposal to present a workshop, panel, or poster. Proposals will be reviewed by the planning committee with preference given to proposals that stress a link between research and practice. The proposals must be submitted via the submission form available on the ASV website and will consist of a title, an abstract (50-100 words), and the preferred presentation method. Presenters must register and pay all fees for the symposium. Complementary registrations will not be given and acceptance of submission is contingent upon registration. Specifics regarding time, location, and provided resources will be sent to accepted submissions. All submissions must be received by December 5, 2007. Presenters will be notified of acceptance. Select presentations may be invited to submit a paper for an ASV proceedings document or other ASV publication.

Exhibits

Publishing companies, consulting firms, service organizations, and other entities that offer products or services related to victim issues are encouraged to exhibit. Exhibits will be placed in an area with regular access to the symposium registrants. There are three options for exhibits:

- Exhibitor-Participant
- Exhibitor
- Information Table

Exhibit applications must be submitted online via the submission form available on the ASV website by February 5, 2008. Only exhibits related to victim issues will be considered; exhibitors will be notified of acceptance. Organizations are also invited to underwrite breaks, receptions, and dinners. Please contact the ASV to discuss sponsorship options.

Schedule

The Symposium starts at 2:00p.m. on March 5 and ends at 11:30 on March 7. View the complete schedule on the ASV website.
